"This technology creates the highest-resolution football experience in the world," said Tiago Pinto, Head of Player Behaviour at EA Sports. "The more precise the physics are, the more realistic a player will feel. This means athletes become reactive and responsive. Players come alive on the pitch, reacting to plays and the crowd's reaction." The new technology also significantly increases the available data that can be collected per player per game, further enhancing player performance and authenticity. Features of EA Sports FIFA 22 include: The most realistic control scheme in soccer simulation history — A new addition to the control scheme is the Precision Touchpad, which has been refined to be more sensitive. The Precision Touchpad represents the outside of the palm of the hand and is used to precisely control dribbling, trapping and shooting. The left analog stick is used to control elevation of the foot. New "Echo of the Moment" ball physics, which uses 21 newly recorded players for improved ball physics — The ball has never felt so right. Thanks to new physics from a newly recorded ball, players respond more naturally to the ball and have a greater ability to close down opponents on the ball. The ball also features more intelligence and response to controlling skills. "Sprint" dribbling animations for all players — Dribbling a la Lionel Messi, Cristiano Ronaldo or Neymar is now more realistic. Players will run to maximize every angle to evade an opponent while dragging them with their instep. New 3D Player scouting and 3D Player personality — A new improved and more in-depth view of each player that can be controlled with your mouse. In addition, a 3D Player Personality system gives new visual and audio cues when a player is open for a pass. New Defense AI System — We set out to create a more intelligent defense and net machine. The new defense system will cover more of the pitch and is more aware of players in their spaces. New Catenaccio variation of the Overrun style — The "Catenaccio" variation of the 4-1-4-1 Overrun style is a team-based style where pressure on the ball increases. It is similar to the style that Ronaldino played with Juventus, but it is even more intense. Improved and more realistic all-star teams — The teams have been updated to include the top all-stars around the world, including Gianluigi Buffon, Lionel Messi, Luka Mod

What's new in Fifa 22:

- Introducing Enhanced Player Conditioning - Now player’s health and stamina influence their ability to perform basic tricks, reactive dribbling, and ease of control. Players can also now push each other off the ball to get free-kicks, convincingly steal the ball from other players and score thanks to important contact with a defender.
- Introducing Defensive Tackles - Defending in FIFA 22 requires quicker decision-making and new defensive skills, like quickly sliding in, using off-the-ball defending tactics, and closing down quickly on the opponent.
- Human Intelligence - Now reward players’ creativity by rewarding them for improvisations in tight situations. For example, midfielders will be rewarded for dribbling with just one of their feet over the ball for a team high up the field. Midfielders also receive an accuracy boost in their work on the ball.
- FUT Player Contracts - FUT Soccer players can now renegotiate their contract at any time. FUT contract negotiations are now done as negotiations between player and owner instead of between player and FUT. Thus, FUT contract negotiations now leverage FUT’s financial system, which allows FIFA Game developers, Arena teams and FUT owners to tweak FUT, after all contracts have been signed. Contracts can now be set to be renewed again, as they are in real life (i.e. one year).

- Persistent Player Outfits - Each player has their own custom persistent player outfit which stays with the player over game sessions and transfers. A player will only be able to wear every item once regardless of how they get to that item.
 - Persistent Player Passes and Shots - Every player that has their own pass and shot icon will now display their unique personal passes when under pressure by team mates and the opposing team, and all of a player's special passes will be put into one single menu. Team mates can still pick the pass of a player that is most appropriate at any given time.
 - Enhanced Experience with Momentum - Experience activates faster as you get forward, thanks to the FIFA Game's Gravity-based Momentum Engine. Momentum drives players' touches, balls, headers, and speed forward, helping to increase players' pace and the rate of experience activation. Experience in FIFA 22 will now be affected by a ball's velocity and movement.
