What's new:

Yen's Journal: After the meeting the next day, we left on routes 222 and 593 towards Crowwei. The Royal Walker Hircine told us we needed to follow the route to Shaw's Tunnel, as he had left it for a reason. SX member: Sword's point? Royal Walker Hircine: Yes. Take the Hawk Path, then rejoin the Monk Road, you should follow the hill with the temple on top. We would have to make our own journey into this strange landscape, hoping to find a path to Shaw's Tunnel, even if we could not find the path to Crowwei. SX member: But we will not. We started traveling, and soon we had opened the path to the north. The land in front of us seemed to be doing everything, turning into a new undiscovered landscape. It was so huge and beyond our capacity, we were lost in the fog, feeling it growing and expanding. Wary well let me choose the right path. Already we had to cross two rivers, and I felt they were not small. SX member: Fiend river? I found the path leading down, and all we needed to do was to jump into the second river. All we have to do is to move forward on the path. The river was eerily dark, and the intense fog made it seem as if it was going to meet us there. It was always as if we have
