I had to recheck the option to "store this location in history" and it worked after that. I'll try the repair with the first command you provided (which worked!) and I'll let you know how it goes. Regards, Cabiero EDIT: It seems the problem is that windows created some kind of autochk code when repairing the previous installation that made the repair fail. I tried repairing it without running the autochk and it worked. If you want, I have found a file with the same name as the autochk code that you can send to the admin or whoever is responsible for the post-repair checking. Anyways, I am very grateful to you for your help. Regards, Cabiero A: Resolved I posted the following to the dell support website: Hi, I am unable to complete the Dell Datasafe Local Backup Upgrade Cd. In the details section that I need to upgrade I keep getting this message "database engine must be restored to a new database" and when I click restore, it tells me that the device is not available. I have tried 2 different computers and 3 different Internet connections. I have tried on a different partition and that didn't fix it. I have tried this command to see what was wrong: $ chkdsk /f "/X" Replace X with your partition's letter. This didn't work for me but I am going to post this anyway because this may help someone. , F. R. & Pringle, J. M. 2005, MNRAS, 358, 1053 Cowie, L. L., Songaila, A., Hu, E. M. & Cohen, J.
