I have a table DBContext, Database DBContext.Users. The primary key is an integer, and I can't change that. But I want to populate a class User with a DateOfBirth property to be set if the user hasn't set it. I've added a default value to my DBContext : Database DBContext.Users.DateOfBirth = DateTime.Now.Year, but I don't want to create a constraint in the database if I could avoid it using Ling To Sql. I think I can use a workaround with a stored procedure, and create the column as not nullable, but is there a simple way to force Ling To Sql to do this? A: It sounds like you want to be using a stored procedure. Once you call sp_executesql to run the procedure it will be stored in the database with no check. You can write the stored procedure to do what you need with the date. Q: What is the best way to backup a server that automatically and continuously backs up to S3? My web development company needs a web-

Photochromic Bruder-Teller molecules. Bromination of the photochromic Bruder-Teller dithienyldiacetals induces a two-color photochemical reaction that features double bond halogenation and transannular isomerization. The halogenation occurs exclusively at the less hindered triple bond, as predicted by Znkevich's rule. Surprisingly, in almost all cases, the less hindered double bond isomerizes before halogenation, demonstrating that conformation is a competitive factor in photochromic reaction pathways. In the case of 4(5)-bromodibenzothiophene, 4-bromo-3,3'-bis(dithienyl)dibenzothiophene, and 4-bromo-2
