You have likely heard and seen the term sales conversion rate. It basically means how many potential customers or leads become actual customers. We all know, at least in theory, how to get qualified leads by generating plenty of leads. But what many people don't realize is that leads are just the "babies" of your sales process. They are the starting point. Once you have your leads, your job is to get their first time purchase and become their lifelong customer. That's why they are called leads.
