I've seen solutions that work for other elements but haven't been able to get a tabbed table to work this way. I want to have it so the left edge of the table cell is aligned with the left side of the tab. The only solution I've found so far is using images. I just want to know if there's a better way to do this with CSS. This is what I'm currently using: table { border-collapse:collapse; }
