There are lots of things you can do with Photoshop like this if you don't know where to begin. For instance, you can create a layer named, say, "Background" and make it click-drag into the Photoshop window. Then, you can create another layer called, say, "Background Logo" which resides in the same group as the "Background" layer. You then can click on the "Background Logo" layer and drag it anywhere you want. This is using layers as an asset to help your website. Previously announced at Adobe MAX, based on feedback from customers and beta testing and in response to constantly evolving technology around the world, Photoshop now has the capability to run under a single operating system. With CS5 Features for Mac and CS5 Features for Windows, users can now edit content on Mac, Windows, and Linux-based computers with the same toolset as Photoshop CS5, including Photoshop Elements, Photoshop CS6, Lightroom and InDesign. "Our team works hard every day to deliver customer value across our platforms," said Shantanu Narayen, CEO of Adobe, in a statement. "We're committed to creating the best possible experience across desktops, tablets and mobile devices. This update reflects how we are listening to feedback from customers and our partners and delivering the most valuable solution to our community of designers, creatives, agencies, enterprises and educators." The 8.0 update of Lightroom brought a lot of features that will help people if they are photographers as well as non-photographers. It was powered with artificial intelligence, which picks the most important feature for the picture and solves the biggest problem with the frame - shadows. There is also the new brush tool support. Now you can brush on the face of a person in the frame. There are some great updates to the color picker. You can now use the presets section to install Adobe Stock or another site's free images. Moreover, the Adobe Stock developers have also updated as well as there are often new options.
